Gradual Release

Gradual release: The gradual release method is the way we teach children to read: by gradually giving them a bigger and bigger role on the reading process. First, we show them what successful reading looks like, then we read together with them and help them, and then eventually they can read by themselves. In the beginning, we read a book aloud to them and show them how we read fluently and with expression (Modelled reading). Then, over time they get involved in the reading process with the help of the teacher. We read Big Books together with the learners (Shared Reading) and help them read in small groups (Guided reading). When children have learned the basic skills of reading, then children can read by themselves (Independent reading). Watch Zaza explain how the gradual release works with the five CAPS reading activities.

Gradual release of responsibility and control: When learners are first learning to read, the teacher has to offer a lot of support and is largely in control of the reading process. Over time she gives more and more control to the learners and offers less and less support. This is the ‘gradual release’ of responsibility and control – little bit by little bit. Children should never struggle when reading. We need to give them just the right amount of support so that they are learning new skills but are also enjoying reading.

How does gradual release work with the 5 CAPS Reading Activities?

The five CAPS reading activities are built on the gradual release method. There are five CAPS reading activities and they move from ‘Teacher Read Aloud’ where the teacher is in control through Shared, Group Guided and Paired Reading to ‘Independent Reading’ where the child is in full control. The in-between reading activities aim to help the learner acquire the skills they need to read on their own.

In Read Aloud the teacher reads by herself, modelling what reading looks like. In Shared Reading children begin to be involved in the reading process together with the teacher. In Group Guided Reading children read by themselves one by one in a small group while the teacher helps occasionally. In Paired reading children read in twos and in Independent Reading children can read all by themselves.

Teacher Read Aloud

Teacher Read Aloud is when the teacher reads an enjoyable story out loud, with expression, to the whole class. The children experience what good writing and good reading sounds like and they see how reading is enjoyable. This motivates them to want to read for themselves and also builds their vocabulary. Teacher Read Aloud is the “I do” activity in Gradual Release. The children do not read together with you. You read the story to them and they listen actively.

What type of books do you use for Read Aloud?

You can use any type of story or text as long as it is interesting and exciting for your learners. You could read a Nal’ibali story out loud to them, or even read from an interesting newspaper article or non-fiction text. The most important thing is that they are interested in what you are reading and excited to hear what happens next. You should think about the type of knowledge and vocabulary that it is developing in your learners.

Watch as Permie does a Read Aloud in her Grade 3 class using a newspaper article about the disease Listeriosis. She is not only modeling what reading looks like, but also building their knowledge and vocabulary about diseases.

When do you do Read Aloud?

You should do Read Aloud every day for about 10 minutes each day. Most teachers do it at the start or the end of the day. You can do Read Aloud during the time you have scheduled for Listening and Speaking. If you link your Read Alouds to the Life skills themes, you could do it as part of Life Skills.
How do you do a Read Aloud lesson?

Watch the video below where Zaza and Permie are discussing Zaza’s Grade 2 Read Aloud lesson using the book “Phata Phata.” While watching the video notice the following:

1. Background knowledge: Before she reads the story Zaza asks the learners what they already know about this topic. Thinking about this will help them to understand the story.
2. Use flashcards to build vocabulary: Before her lesson Zaza makes flash-cards with new vocabulary words that are going to appear in the story. She introduces these before she reads the story so that the learners will know what these words mean.
3. Ask questions: Without interrupting the story too much, Zaza asks the learners questions to make sure they understand what she is reading and to get their opinions on the story.
4. Use facial expressions: Zaza uses lots of facial expressions while reading. This makes the story more enjoyable for the learners.
5. Integrating Literacy and Life Skills: Notice that Zaza has selected a topic from Life Skills but is using it also to build her learners’ knowledge about reading and to learn new words.
6. Using songs and whole-body activities: Notice that Zaza ends the lesson by singing a song about her body and getting the kids to stand up and go through the actions of the song.
An Introduction to Teaching Reading: 5 CAPS Reading Activities

Shared Reading

Shared reading is the “We Do it Together” CAPS Reading Activity. The teacher shows the children how to read a text with understanding and does it with them. Usually this is using a ‘big text’ like a “Big Book” or something that the teacher has written out in big print so that all the learners can read it.

What texts do I use for Shared Reading?

- Texts that are good for teaching the focus reading strategy: For Shared Reading you should use enlarged texts that are good for teaching the reading strategy you are focusing on. For example, if you are going to teach the skill of sequencing (beginning, middle, end), then choose a text which has a sequence of events that is easy to identify.
- Texts that children need a little help to read: The text must be a little bit harder than children can read on their own. Shared Reading books are often the big books of leveled readers for guided reading – they prepare children for Group Guided Reading. Be sure that you use longer and more complex texts as the year progresses, and that harder texts are used in higher grades.
- A variety of text types: During the year, use different types (genres) of texts, such as stories, songs, poems, rhymes, plays, and information texts.
- Ensure that the text is large enough for the class to read.

Why is Shared Reading important?

1. All children can feel successful: In Shared Reading the teacher and children read slightly challenging texts together. Because they are sharing the reading with the teacher, children can successfully read texts that are a bit harder than they can read alone.
2. It helps children pay attention to the text: The teacher helps children to see where to focus their attention when reading. Especially, she can focus their attention on getting to the meaning of the text.

3. They learn reading strategies: The teacher focuses the children’s attention on strategies used by good readers. The whole class practices these strategies with the teacher’s assistance. Examples of strategies, behaviors and skills are: interpreting punctuation when reading, making links between ideas in the text, linking ideas in the text to background knowledge, what to do when you come to a word that you do not understand and monitoring your understanding. You will learn more about reading strategies in upcoming modules as well as in the curriculum documents.

When do I do Shared Reading?

3 times a week: Shared reading is timetabled to happen three times a week for 15 minutes in grades 1-3. Shared Reading is not mentioned in the timetable for Grade R, but it can be one of the strategies you use in the Teacher Guided Activities.

Use same text for the 3 lessons: CAPS suggests using the same text for three shared reading lessons. This is so that children get repeated exposure to the text and the vocabulary and strategies can be reinforced. Repeated reading with support from the teacher helps develop reading skills.

How do I do Shared Reading?

1. Whole class moves to mat: In this video, Zaza is setting up a routine to come to the mat. Children will eventually be able to do this automatically.

2. Display the text: All children must be able to see it clearly.

3. Point to the words: The teacher moves her finger or a pointer smoothly below the words as they read the text together. Be careful that you do not cover the words with your hand by mistake.

4. Children read with teacher: The children join in reading where they can. If the children are seeing the text for the first time, the teacher’s voice will be louder than the children’s. If they have read the text a few times already, the teacher might whisper while the children read loudly.

5. Teach a reading strategy: Shared reading time is an important time for teaching new reading behaviours, strategies or skills. The teacher talks about and demonstrates a new strategy that helps the children to read with understanding. Sometimes this happens before the shared reading, but it needs to be reinforced during the reading.

An Introduction to Teaching Reading: 5 CAPS Reading Activities

Group Guided Reading

Group Guided Reading (GGR) is moving from “we do” to “you do.” In GGR the teacher works with a small group of 6-10 learners on the mat while the rest of the class is busy with another activity. Each learner in the GGR group has the same book that is at the ability level of the group and they read one-by-one while the teacher listens and supports.

What books do we use in GGR?

In Group Guided Reading we use books called “graded readers” – these are stories that are especially designed and ordered in a way so that they only increase slightly in difficulty as you go up the series. For example, there are 66 stories in the Vula Bula series. As you go up from Story 1 upwards there are more words and the stories increase in difficulty. In the more difficult stories there are:

- More words (length of text),
- New words (vocabulary),
- New punctuation (like “?” “!” and “.”), and
- New grammar (like past and present tense).

The Vula Bula Graded reader Anthologies

The ECDOE has provided all Grade 1-3 learners with their own Vula Bula anthology of graded readers. An anthology is a collection of stories in a single book. Grade 1 Vula Bula Anthology has Story 1-24, the Grade 2 Anthology has Story 25-44, and the Grade 3 Anthology has Story 45-66. Each Grade 1 child should have received their own Grade 1 Anthology. Each Grade 2 child should receive both a Grade 1 and a Grade 2 anthology, and each Grade 3 child should receive both a Grade 2 and a Grade 3 anthology. The reason that the Grade 2 and Grade 3 learners are also receiving an anthology from the previous grade is that they may struggle to read the stories that are for their Grade. In that case they should move to an earlier story, even if it is from the previous grade. If a Grade 3 child is struggling to read Story 45 (the first Grade 3 Anthology story), then they should move to easier stories (perhaps Story 35) in the Grade 2 Anthology. Learners should never struggle while they are reading.

MAIN AIMS of Group Guided Reading:

1. Individual attention: hearing each child read individually at least once per week.
2. Teaching same ability groups: Focus on teaching a specific skill that that group is struggling with.
3. Books at the right level: selecting books that are at the right level for the learners. They shouldn’t struggle.
4 Big Ideas of GGR:

• Giving individual attention

Teaching small groups of 6-10 learners so that you can hear each child read one by one and give individual support. While each child reads one-by-one the rest of the small group follows silently in their own book.

• Teaching same ability groups

By splitting your groups into learners of the same ability you can focus on different skills with different groups. Not all children in your class will struggle with the same problem. GGR allows you to focus on one skill with one group and another skill with another group.

• Using books at the right level

All the learners in a group should use the same story during GGR and you should have your own book. The book should be at the right level for the ability of the learners. That means that the learners should not struggle to read the story.

They should be able to read 80-90% of the words correctly and only find 10-20% of the words difficult. If they are struggling then you should go to an easier story with that group. If they are reading 100% of the words correctly then you can move to a more difficult story. Because the books are at the right level, learners should never struggle.

• Teaching a specific skill

Before you start teaching a group you should think “What strategy or skill am I teaching this group?” Depending on the group you will focus on a different skill or strategy.

Remember to always ask learners questions about what they are reading. For example “What do you think is going to come next?” or “How do you think this boy feels when he lost his toy?”
When do we do GGR?

30 minutes a day has been allocated to Group Guided Reading in CAPS. A teacher should spend time with two groups of learners each day giving them 15 minutes per group in Home Language. Ideally this will mean that you work with the each GGR group twice a week. When you first start doing GGR you may only be able to do one group per day in the 30 minute slot. Once learners are familiar with the GGR routines of getting to the mat and getting their books, and when the rest of the class is used to working by themselves then you can move to seeing two groups per day for 15 minutes each.

What is the rest of the class doing during GGR?

Decide what the rest of the class will do when the teacher is working on the mat with a reading group, the other learners must have an activity to do without the teacher’s help. If they are not kept meaningfully occupied, the children will become noisy and disruptive. At first it will be more manageable if the class all does the same activity, especially if the class is large. Sometimes you can set up four or five different activities for a week, and get the reading groups to rotate through these activities, so that each group does a different activity every day.

The teacher needs to plan this carefully, making sure that there is enough work to do and to make sure that while you are busy doing guided group reading with one group of learners, make sure the rest of the class is engaged with other language and literacy activities. This includes work in the Learners’ Workbook as well as extension activities for those learners who work quickly, for example:

- Learners can draw a picture of something or someone they liked in a story you have all read.
- Learners can cut out the letter b and B from magazines and newspapers and paste these into their exercise books.
- Learners can cut out from magazines and newspapers and/or draw pictures of things that have the ‘b’ sound in their names, and paste these into their exercise books.
- Give learners small beans or bottle tops or stones. They can use these to practise forming the letter b and then write it in Handwriting book.

Establish rules for GGR in the classroom

Take the time to explain the GGR process to the learners. Show them how to find their group, allocate group leaders and teach the learners how to move to the mat. Practice this routine until all the children can do it quickly and quietly. Familiarise the children with the GGR timetable. Set Group Guided Reading rules for the class. The rest of the class should work independently during GGR time. Model how to handle and look after books.

Example exercises that the rest of the class could do during GGR time

Learners spend almost a third of their literacy time working in their groups without the teacher. It is therefore very important that they are working effectively on meaningful activities that improve their reading and writing. It is an opportunity for learners to practice phonics, handwriting and writing. They can also read to each other (paired reading).

Steps to follow for GGR

- Call a small group of learners (6-8) to work with the teacher on the mat
- Every learner has a copy of the same book
- Communicate the focus of the GGR session
- Have a discussion about the cover of the book
- Teacher reads one to two lines demonstrating fluency
- Let one learner read at a time while others follow silently
- Teacher focus attention on a particular reading strategy
- Teacher helps learners to use that strategy when they read
- Ask each learner comprehension question about the story
- Records learners’ reading progress and gives feedback
- Teacher checks that rest of the class is working independently

Here are some examples of strategies, skills and behaviour you could focus on in GGR

- Decoding skills
- Oral reading fluency
- Using different comprehension strategies
- Interpreting punctuation
- Identifying the characters and setting
- Reading silently while others are reading aloud
- Using pictures as clues to the meaning of words

Things you can do to help children to apply word attack skills:

- Sound out each letter from left to right
- Break the word up into syllables
- Look for small words within the big words
- Skip the hard word and read the rest of the sentence. Then re-read with the missing word
- Read the first sound in that word or syllable

Paired and Independent Reading

Paired and Independent Reading are “you do” reading activities. In paired reading, two children read softly to each other. They take turns to read from the same book. Their aim is to practise reading accurately and fluently with understanding. The children support and help each other to read. In Independent Reading children choose a book they want to read and read it softly to themselves. These two reading activities are usually placed together because both Paired and Independent Reading are reading activities which do not involve the teacher.

What texts do I use for Paired and Independent Reading?

Whole texts: Children must read whole sentences, paragraphs and stories so that they can develop comprehension, fluency and reading speed.

At the right level: The important thing is children must not be frustrated by trying to read something that is too hard without help from the teacher.

Usually chosen by teacher for Pairs: Teachers usually allocate books and graded readers to the pairs. If the school has enough books, give the pairs a few books at the right level and let them choose which one to read. Children find this motivating.

Can read children’s own writing: Paired reading is a great time for children to read their own writing to each other. This makes them proud of themselves as authors and gives them a real audience to write for.

Independent Reading texts: Learners should be able to choose from a range of interesting, relevant and attractive books.

- There needs to be a variety of fiction and non-fiction books.
- Learners can also access digital stories on tablets or computers, if your school is equipped with them.
- The Graded Reader Anthologies provide learners with access to several stories that they can read at school and at home.
- The DBE Workbooks also contain information and stories that can be used for independent reading.
- Newspapers, Nal’ibali supplements, magazines and other materials also make good independent reading resources.

MAIN AIMS of Paired and Independent Reading:

1. Builds independent readers: children gain confidence and motivation to read.
2. Improves oral reading fluency: Children can practise reading with accuracy and speed when reading text at their level.
3. Children solve reading problems on their own
   When children read without teacher support, they get a chance to solve reading problems on their own.

When do learners do Paired and Independent Reading?

When the teacher is busy with Group Guided Reading is a great time to do Paired and Independent Reading.

Schedule it: Paired and Independent reading is required by CAPS, but specific time is not set aside for it. Therefore, the teacher can decide when to fit it in. Aim to give children at least one uninterrupted block of time per week to read in pairs and independently.

Grades: Start doing paired reading in Grade 1 Home Language. From Grade 2, do it in EFAL as well. Start doing Independent Reading from Grade R – emergent readers benefit greatly from looking at books, handling them and “pretend reading”. It is part of building their identity as a reader. Continue to give time for independent reading in all grades.

How do we do Paired Reading?

1. Organize children into reading pairs: Organize pairs at the beginning of the year, using your baseline assessment. You can change the pairs during the year.
2. There are different ways of organising pairs: You can pair readers of the same ability together – for instance, strong readers with strong readers, and weaker readers with weak readers. But, you can also mix abilities and pair strong readers with weaker readers.
3. Teach the routine and rules: At the beginning of the year, explain to the children what Paired Reading involves and exactly what they need to do during the period. Let them practice the routine with your guidance at first.
4. Teach children to give feedback to their partner
How do we do Independent Reading?

1. Teach learners how to behave during Independent Reading: Model, discuss and practice how learners should behave during Independent Reading time. Some important routines to establish include: How should they sit? Where should they sit? How should it sound? What should they do when they finish?

2. Teach learners how to choose books: Teach children to choose books that are interesting and at the right level. Teach learners the 5-finger rule for choosing books at the right level: hold up a finger every time they cannot read a word. If they cannot read more than five words on a page, they should probably choose an easier book.

3. Build focus: Young learners will struggle to focus on reading for a long time at first. They get tired easily or want to do something else. Slowly increase the time for Independent Reading to help learners read for a longer time.

4. Give learners a chance to talk about what they have read: One way to check whether learners actually read during Independent Reading is to give them a chance to tell the class or to tell you individually about what they have read. Especially, help them to share what they found exciting and what they enjoyed.

Extra videos:
Phonics: Letter-sound relationships

The goal of phonics is to teach children how to use their knowledge of the relationships between letters and sounds to read and to spell. Children need to understand that our alphabetic writing system represents sounds with letters. It is important for children to learn what the letter-sound relationships are so that they can learn to read written words. In order to learn to read, children need to hear the sounds in words and to link these sounds to the appropriate letters in the alphabet.

How do you teach children that specific letters represent specific sounds?

In isiXhosa, a particular sound is always represented by the same letter. We know from research that children who are aware of sounds in spoken language and know how these sounds are related to letters, are at an advantage when they begin learning to read and write, so we start teaching this in Grade R. By the middle of Grade 1 children should be able to link all the single letters of the alphabet with their sounds, both in reading and in writing.

Representing sounds with objects and letters.

The teacher asked learners to place objects that have the ‘b’ sound in one circle and those that have the ‘s’ sound in another circle.

Representing sounds with objects and words.

The teacher can ask the learners to name the objects from the pictures and emphasize the ‘j’ sound when saying the words. You can then write the letter ‘j’ in handwriting booklet or do the exercise in DBE workbook.
Steps when introducing a letter:

- Listen for the sound the letter makes
- Say the sound
- Think of other words beginning with the same sound
- Form the letter using different senses (in the air with their finger, write it, paint it etc.)
- Link the letter to the alphabet frieze on the wall

Activities for practicing letter-sound relationships

It is important for children to learn the sounds that letters make and to use this knowledge to read and write words and sentences with accuracy and speed. You can teach them how to do this in your phonics lessons and practise while reading books during the CAPS reading activities.

When should letter-sounds be taught?

- In Grade R: Children learn to recognise the different sounds in words in Grade R. They learn to break spoken words down into their individual sounds and build them up again. This is called phonological awareness. Letter-sound relationships are taught informally in Grade R. Learners are usually taught the letters that occur in their names. They may also become familiar with the vowels and some common single sounds such as m, l, v, n. Phonics is done in a playful, fun way in Grade R, for example, children learn songs and rhymes associated with letters and sounds.

- In Grade 1: This is the grade in which most of the letter-sound relationships should be taught, including the vowels, single consonant sounds and common digraphs bh, ph, th, kh, lw, hl.

- In Grade 2: The trigraphs can be taught early in Grade 2, but by then learners should already have a good grasp of the alphabet and should be able to manage the more complex consonant sounds quite easily. It is important to remember that it is not enough to just teach the letter-sounds. We need to go further and teach children how to use this knowledge to read and to spell.
Phonics: Blending and Segmenting

When children are first learning to read they need to be able to join letters together to make syllables and words (blending) and to separate words into syllables and sounds (segmenting).

Once learners understand that sounds are represented by letters, they can start to put the sounds together to read words, for example, they can move from reading ‘v + u + k + a’, to reading the word ‘vuka.’ This is called blending. Once children can blend, they can join sounds together in syllables and simple words. It’s very important that learners understand the building blocks of words, from the smallest parts (letters and their sounds) to syllables and then to words. When learning to read children need to be able to join letters to make syllables and words (blending letters and their sounds together), but also to break down words into syllables and syllables into individual sounds/letters (segmenting). Let’s watch a video of Zaza explaining this:

Segmenting: Your goal as the teacher is to get children to a place where they can read and write whole words, sentences and eventually paragraphs and stories. This starts with a good understanding of sounds in words and that these sounds can be represented by the letters of the alphabet. To make a syllable like ‘ba’ we need to join a consonant (b) and a vowel (a) to make ‘ba’. These syllables can be combined to make whole words, like ba-la ‘bala’. Once learners can write words, they can use this knowledge to spell words. You can segment a word into syllables and then into individual letters.

Segmenting: from words to syllables.

It is important for children to be able to break down a word into its syllables.

Segmenting: from syllables to letters:

Children must be able to identify the individual sounds in syllables. For example that ‘na’ is made up of ‘n’ and ‘a’.

Blending: You must help the learners notice the individual sounds in spoken and written words and play around with these sounds and letters in different ways. You can show learners that we can blend different letters and syllables to make different words. In isiXhosa it is easier to use verbs when you do this exercise. It is important to make these activities fun – by using games and songs.
1. Building words from syllable cards

It is important that children can recognise the sounds the letters make and can blend them together so that they can read words. Activities involving word-building using the letter-sound relationships they already know are good.

2. Working with a group on a mat to write the names of objects

It is good to link writing and words to real life objects that children can touch or see. This helps them with comprehension so they can understand that the words we are making and the syllables we are blending have meaning when put together. When doing this activity, choose simple words that have the letters/phonics focus for the week.

3. Making words and sentences from a picture

Once learners are able to make words from syllables we move on to using the words to create sentences. It is important that learners don’t just stay at the level of singing syllables “ba, be, bi, bo, bu” but that they develop an understanding of whole words and use these words to build sentences.
