That’s what friends are for
Group-guided reading

Before reading
- Page through the story the learners will read. Talk about the illustrations.
- Ask them to predict what the story will be about; based on the title and the pictures.
- Introduce new or difficult words prior to the learners reading the story.
- Make word cards to introduce new vocabulary. (See the list of new vocabulary in the back inner cover.)

First reading
- Learners should read the text individually.
- Learners should read silently or they can ‘whisper-read’ the text.
- Move from one learner to the next, requesting each learner to read a section of the text aloud.

Discussion
- Ask comprehension questions based on the text.
- Focus on phonics, sight words and vocabulary.
- You will find the activities in the back of this book useful to guide the discussion. (Select appropriate activities for the level of the learners.)

Second reading
- On later days, let learners reread the book, either in pairs or alone.
- Focus on fluency, grammar and vocabulary.
- Let learners complete the group-guided activities which are included in the back of this book. (Select appropriate activities for the level of the learners.)

Let learners do a role play if the text lends itself to it.

Learners should do the group-reading activities after reading the story.
Let learners work in groups to complete the appropriate group-reading activities included in the back of the book. They should not write in this book. Written activities should be done in their exercise books.
That's what friends are for
Jane and Mandu were riding their bikes near the river. Jane was riding fast. As she was going down the hill, she rode faster and faster. Mandu said, “Slow down, Jane! Slow down! You are riding too fast!”
Slow down Jane!
Suddenly Jane hit a sharp rock. She looked down and saw her tyre was flat. “Oh no!” she cried. “I have a puncture!”

“Don’t worry, Jane,” Mandu replied. “I will help you fix it.”

But Mandu and Jane forgot to bring the pump.
Oh no! I have a puncture!

I’ll help you fix it.
Mandu said, “I will ride home and fetch my pump and repair kit.”

Mandu rode back home leaving Jane with her dog.

“I will never ride without my pump again,” Jane muttered to herself.
I will be back soon!
Jane waited and waited and waited. She felt very hungry and thirsty. "Soon it will be dark," she thought.
I wonder if Mandu will come back before it gets dark?
Then Jane saw Mandu riding down the road with her brother Dumisani.

Jane was very happy to see them.

"I am so glad you are back!" shouted Jane.
Thank you for coming back. Did you bring the pump and repair kit?
Dumisani helped the two girls repair and pump the tyre.

Then he said, "Let’s go home before it gets very dark."
Children working on a bicycle, with a dog and other animals in the background.
The children rode back home in the moonlight.

It was a long ride. They could hear the frogs croaking and the owls hooting. They could hear the crickets chirping and the mice squeaking.
They rode over the bridge.

“Look at the moon!” said Mandu. The full moon lit the road.

“We must get home soon,” said Jane. “My mother must be looking for me.”

“It’s nearly eight o’clock,” said Dumisani. “We should get home soon.”
“Home at last!” said Jane as she gave Mandu a hug. “Thank you Mandu,” she said. “You are a good friend!”

“That’s what friends are for,” Mandu said.

Good friends help each other!

The CAPS requires teachers to allocate some time each day for focused group-guided reading. In group-guided reading, teachers guide learners of a similar reading level, to read the same book, in a group. The reading session should include a range of word attack skills and comprehension strategies that children require when reading. Reading effectively also requires "text talk" between the teacher and learners, and amongst the children in the group. These books include a number of "text talk", comprehension and other related activities to help teachers direct group reading in their classes.
