Animals at sea
Group-guided reading

Before reading
- Page through the story the learners will read. Talk about the illustrations.
- Ask them to predict what the story will be about; based on the title and the pictures.
- Introduce new or difficult words prior to the learners reading the story.
- Make word cards to introduce new vocabulary. (See the list of new vocabulary in the back inner cover.)

First reading
- Learners should read the text individually.
- Learners should read silently or they can ‘whisper-read’ the text.
- Move from one learner to the next, requesting each learner to read a section of the text aloud.

Discussion
- Ask comprehension questions based on the text.
- Focus on phonics, sight words and vocabulary.
- You will find the activities in the back of this book useful to guide the discussion. (Select appropriate activities for the level of the learners.)

Second reading
- On later days, let learners reread the book, either in pairs or alone.
- Focus on fluency, grammar and vocabulary.
- Let learners complete the group-guided activities which are included in the back of this book. (Select appropriate activities for the level of the learners.)

Let learners do a role play if the text lends itself to it.

Learners should do the group-reading activities after reading the story.
Let learners work in groups to complete the appropriate group-reading activities included in the back of the book. They should not write in this book. Written activities should be done in their exercise books.
Animals at sea
One day, the wild animals, birds and insects from Africa wanted to see the world. They decided to go on a boat trip.

They enjoyed the first few days of their new adventure, but after a few days they became bored and began to quarrel.
Woody Woodpecker started to fight with Peter Pigeon. While they were rolling around, the woodpecker accidentally poked a hole in the boat.

Water started leaking into the boat. The hole got bigger and bigger. More and more water flooded into the boat.
The animals were worried that the boat might sink and that they might drown.

“Buzz, buzz, buzz,” Busy Bee said, “Let’s work together to fix the hole.” So, all the animals worked together to try and fix the hole.
Flap, flap, flap!
The birds tried to lift the boat out of the water by flapping their wings, but they were not strong enough.

The elephant sucked up the water from the bottom of the boat and sprayed it into the sea.

Swish! Swash! Swish! Swash!
The bees, ants, mice and spiders tried everything they could think of to close the hole.

They used spider thread, beeswax and honey, but they could not close the hole.

The water continued flowing into the boat and the level of the water in the boat got higher and higher.
By this time all the animals were afraid of drowning.

At that exact moment a little fish swam through the hole into the boat.

"Can you please help us, little fish?" they asked anxiously.

"Yes of course," said the little fish.
The little fish went to fetch Wally Whale. He pressed his huge body against the hole and stopped the water from flowing into the boat.
Finally the animals were able to fix the hole while there was no water flowing into the boat!

They were very relieved, and they all thanked Wally Whale.
King Lion said, “Thank you little fish. Thank you Wally Whale. You have saved us!” The animals were excited that they could continue their trip.

All the animals agreed, “Together we can make a difference!”

Alone we can do so little, together we can do so much more!
The animals went in two by two, Hoorah!

The animals went in two by two, Hoorah! Hoorah!
The elephant and the kangaroo,
And they all went into the ark, to get out of the rain.

Oh Honey Bee, I love your song, your busy buzzing all day long.
You find flowers with nectar sweet,
get pollen on your legs so neat.

And though you have a painful sting,
your honey is the sweetest thing.
The golden honey from your hive, keeps happiness and joy alive.

The CAPS requires teachers to allocate some time each day for focused group-guided reading. In group-guided reading, teachers guide learners of a similar reading level, to read the same book, in a group. The reading session should include a range of word attack skills and comprehension strategies that children require when reading. Reading effectively also requires “text talk” between the teacher and learners, and amongst the children in the group. These books include a number of “text talk”, comprehension and other related activities to help teachers direct group reading in their classes.
